Heid, but not by any member of the family.

Further, that "the kidnapping was planned and executed by a gang of five persons, whose names, naturally, we cannot disclose at this time."

From the onset, after asking if Lindbergh was armed and receiving an answer of "No," Reilly directed his cross-examination towards his announced line, asking sharp questions about the background of the Lindbergh servants.

Reilly made the first show with a pointer on the state's charts the layout of the nursery and home, and wanted to know from him how servants moved about the house.

He was especially insistent upon the probability that no persons outside of the Lindbergh home would know that the Lindberghs were forced to stay in Hopewell overnights on the fateful weekend in March, 1932, because the baby had a cold.

Colonel Lindbergh had testified they had usually returned to the Hopewell on Sunday afternoon. The baby was stolen on Tuesday night, March 1, 1932.

Uncertain as to 'Gang'

As to whether a person or a 'gang' on the outside would have knowledge to his movements, Colonel Lindbergh said:

"Well, that depends upon their organization."

Lindbergh talked in low and from time, seemed at ease. Once he grinned when he defended the police against the cross-examination that they were "not infallible."

Lindbergh testified there were no fingerprints on the ransom notes, only smudges.

"Before the cross-examination was when up, Lindbergh described all of his future search for his son, his flights over land and sea—all of them in vain."

He told of putting $50,000 in a small wooden box and carrying it to the cemetery after Dr. Condon told him the ransom could be done for $50,000.

The box was slightly cracked, he said, because of the bulk of the $50,000.

The doctor got out of the automobile at the cemetery, he related, and returned in from 10 to 15 minutes.

Bares Search for Child

Later, he went to Bridgeport, Conn., hoping to get his child. He went by car with Dr. Condon, Colonel Henry Beckwith and a Mr. Treay of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

From Bridgeport the party took the air in an amphibian plane.

Q: How long would it take to fly in your plane?

A: "I believe several hours, I haven't the exact time, but we flew over the area described in the note. We landed up there and spent considerable time looking over the sea harbors in that vicinity."

The note of which he spoke, he said, had been delivered to Dr. Condon at St. Raymond's cemetery when the money was paid.

Q: What was the purpose of your mission in the plane? A: We were looking for the boat described in the note which you just showed me, and to see if we could find any location of my son.

Q: And after approximately two hours . . . A: We were gone, I believe, longer than that, because we landed there, as I recall now, we did not return until after noon.

Q: Did you pilot the plane yourself? A: I did.

Q: And during those hours you searched the waters in that vicinity for the boat that you hoped had your son in it? A: That is correct.

Q: Four search, of course, was in vain that day.

Q: You returned then where? A: Believe me, returned to a field, a land field near Hempstead, Long Island, called the Aviation Country Club.

Q: Did you make another effort in a plane to locate the boat?

"Yes," Lindbergh answered.

That was supposed to be the one that you were looking for? A: I did later.

Q: When? The same day? A: No, it was a day or two afterwards.

Q: And again, who went up with you that time? A: At the moment, I don't recall to was in that plane.

He piloted again, he said, and was up in the air for several hours.

Q: And again that search was in vain? A: Yes.

Then he landed at Teterboro Airport in New Jersey, he said, and drove on to his home in Hopewell.

"That was in April, during the early part of the search," he said.

Lindbergh then related how he last saw the child the Sunday night two days before the kidnapping.

Then came the story of that identification at midnight in a Trenton morgue.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: Was it your child? A: Yes.

Q: No, you did not know it was your child? A: No.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Q: You saw that body? A: Yes.

Agony for Lindy

Crowd's Thrill Torture to Flier

For curious spectators it was a high moment when Colonel Lindbergh himself took the stand in the trial of Hauptmann, but for the Lone Eagle it must have been a moment of abject tragedy as he gazed at the table to identify the little garments that were once those of his first-born son. (Picture by International News Photograph Service.)

Footprints Near Crib

"Now, will you tell us about the condition of the room with reference to whether or not there are any footprints of any kind at all in the room."

Wentland answered:

"There were prints on the suit or on top of the suitcase which was under the window on the southeast side of the nursery. There was also a print on the floor beneath that window and inside of the suitcase which was on a small rug. There was also a print on the floor beneath that window and inside of the suitcase which was on a small rug. There was also a print on the floor beneath that window and inside of the suitcase which was on a small rug."

Defense Opens Fire on Lindy

Reilly's first question was: "Colonel, are you armed?"

"Yes," he answered.

"What time of the kidnapping?"

"I don't know," he answered.

"What time of the kidnapping?"

"I don't know," he answered.

Betty Gow's Brother 'In Trouble'

Q: "Now, did you get Betty Gow?"

A: "She came recommended by the Morrow household. Q: Did you know she had any brothers?"

A: "No. Q: You didn't know she had one brother in Canada and one brother in Trenton?"

Mrs. Lindbergh Absent; Betty Gow Glares at Bruno

By Associated Press

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4.—Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh was absent from court today when her husband resumed the stand in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann.

Betty Gow, who was nurse for the murdered Lindbergh baby, was in the game brown costume she wore yesterday. She sat in a front row chair where she had a clear front view of Hauptmann. She looked into his face, ignoring the testimony Colonel Lindbergh was giving. Her mouth and another who has been in trouble in New Jersey? A: No.

Again the court buzzed. It was a morning of repeated sensations.

Reilly questioned Lindbergh closely with regard to household knowledge of his going and coming.

Q: "The knowledge of your movements, you might say, were known to your father, the butler, your wife and nursemaid. A: Well, perhaps."

Q: "You as a father make every effort to find out the background of the people in the house the night your child was snatched away?" demanded Reilly sharply.

Raps Lindbergh On Servants

The state objected vigorously, but Justice Trenchard ruled Lindbergh could answer.

A placed confidence in the police," he replied.

"As a man of the world," he added, "I know the police are not infallible."

The aviator looked at Reilly and said with a grin:

"I thought we had very good police."

A wave of hand clapping swept the court, and the justice rapped sharply for order, and warned the spectators.

Q: "Is it a fact that no federal agent ever saw the ransom notes?"

A: "No. I know it was New York City."

Q: "Isn't it a fact that this investigation since the day it started has been in the hands of the state police?"

A: "That was the authority."

Asks Lindy If He Was Kidnap Target

When Reilly electrified the courtroom by inquiring:

"In the course of the investigation, Colonel, have you ever heard of a man who was the one to be kidnapped?"

Wentland jumped to his feet.

"Just a minute, just a minute," he snapped.

And objected to the question as irrelevant.

Justice Trenchard sustained the objection and the question was unanswered.

Wentland said:

"I want it understood that the objection and the question was unanswered."

Lindy Quizzed on Fingerprints

Reilly then directed the aviator to take the police and indicate to the jury on the charts the window out of which the child was taken.

Q: "Was there any fingerprints on the outside of that window?"

A: "No. I was informed at the time that it did not have any fingerprints. Who first approached the window?"

A: "I did. Q: Was it locked?"

A: "No, no one ever locked it. Q: Was any stranger ever in your nursery?"

A: "Not as far as I know."

Asked if He Feared Baby Smothering

Reilly asked if the Colonel ever feared his son might roll over on his face and smother in his crib.

"No, nor did I think it probable," Lindbergh answered.

Reilly then directed Lindbergh to review his testimony on how the kidnapping was discovered.

"I see, you were trying to train him to sleep when you put him to bed?" Reilly asked while questioning about picking the child.

"Yes."

Reilly shifted his glance toward the jury box for a moment and then boomed forth:

"Reilly asked that the little fellow was put to bed at 10 o'clock with a nurse, and no one looked at him until morning."

Room Distances

"Can you recall, Colonel, that you said there was a yellow smudge on the radiator top?"

"Not so much as on the suitcase handle."

Reilly asked about the texture of the suitcase, and Lindbergh said it was one kind of ply wood.

"It would break, wouldn't it, if you stepped on it from the window?"

"I don't think so."

Reilly asked Lindbergh again how far it was between the window and the crib.

"It was," Lindbergh estimated, "about 12 feet."

"What was Betty Gow's condition?"

GREATNESS OF LINDBERGH SEEN UNDER CROSS FIRE

"BEST WITNESS" NOTED WRITER "EVER SAW"

'Floors' Defense Counsel

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS
Copyright, 1935, by International News Service
Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4.—It was just like seeing Dempsey go over the ropes and out of the ring when Firpo hit in that first round—just like that, what Lindy did to Mister Edward J. Reilly, distinguished counsel for Bruno Hauptmann.

Mister Reilly, on cross-examination of the ace of the air, came in swinging. You saw him, necked, florid brickman, with a cold, watery blue eye, with heavy shoulders and heavy voice.

The chief counsel for the defense, standing square and glowering. And on the stand, Lindy, tall and awkward still, blonde and blue-eyed.

Lindy, who only a few moments before had paled visibly as he identified the picture of his murdered son.

He had touched with his hands. He trembled a little, a little, a little, as he gave away a lot of weight.

Lindy, who is the greatest airplane pilot in the world, didn't used to courtroom.

Adela Reilly, who is called a silent young man, within ten seconds, he had brought the courtroom almost to its feet.

Within ten minutes he had evoked a wild round of applause from the spectators and you knew except for the stern eye of the judge and the black robed dignity of the court, we saw all been our feet cheering.

Reilly Made

"Great Mistake"

Lindy made your love him. And in half an hour he had the courtroom with him to a man and to a woman. And we had all been a little undecided about Lindy.

Mr. Edward J. Reilly made a very great mistake. A very grave mistake—if I am any judge of lawyers and I have been watching the greatest of them since I was eight years old.

You see, it was Colonel Lindbergh's baby that they kidnaped. And Colonel Lindbergh wants the kidnaper and murderer hanged.

Mr. Reilly had been courteous, if he had been nice, if he had asked for Lindy's cooperation in determining Hauptmann's guilt or innocence, all would have been well. That was all he needed to do. But his antagonism hummed in his first question, he began an attack—his cross-examination was an attack.

Lindy, relaxed and a little pale, realized it suddenly—you saw him realize it with amazement, on that first question.

"Didn't you know there was a good deal of antagonism toward you among your neighbors at Hagerwall?"

And just as suddenly as Lindy realized it, we in the courtroom knew that Mr. Edward J. Reilly was facing the man who flew the Atlantic by himself, the man who has opened up paths in the trackless air, and has flown where never man flew before.

Mr. Reilly wasn't cross-examining Lindy Lindbergh's dad, he wasn't cross-examining the slim young father who had told us of identifying his little son's corpse in a morgue at midnight.

He was cross-examining Colonel Charles Augustus Lindbergh, of the United States Army air force, and we knew why this tall, awkward young man WAS Colonel Lindbergh.

"Didn't you, as a father, yourself, make inquiries about the antecedents of every member of your household after this kidnapping?" Reilly demanded.

It was an accusation, the way he said it.

Lindbergh's face tightened and his jaw began to clench.

"I left that to the police," he said.

"Don't you know that the police weren't always infallible?" said Mr. Reilly.

"I think we have very efficient police," said Colonel Lindbergh. "Equipped as I was not to make such inquiries."

Reilly wanted to know if Colonel Lindbergh was armed and though the judge said Lindy didn't have to answer, Lindy did answer.

—in a silent voice that was like a snaky right upstart. "I am not," he said. You felt that he didn't need to.

And how beautifully he explained about his arms—the gun he carried on long flights—and the rifle he had had with him on his long air voyage in South America.

I have seen a great many witnesses on the stand under fire—and that goes without saying—he was the father of a murdered child and though he may be mistaken he can be guilty of nothing BUT a mistake in thinking Hauptmann guilty.

He cannot possibly be treated as though he were deliberately misrepresenting anything, but he was under fire and he was the best witness I ever saw.

He made his identification of Bruno Hauptmann.

It took my breath away. It was the biggest moment of the trial to date.

Mr. Wilentz, the attorney general asked him, "The voice you heard in the cemetery that night saying 'hey doctor'—have you heard that voice again?"

Lindy said, "Yes."

"Whose voice was it?"

"It was Bruno Hauptmann's."

Looks Square at Hauptmann

For the first time, Lindbergh looked square at Hauptmann.

You knew Lindbergh believed it, that he was sure, that he was under oath and that he was SURE.

You knew that though he had only heard that voice once, and only for a few words, that he could not forget it, that he would never forget it, that it had done something to him that was written in his brain and in his soul beyond all possible mistake.

Lindy, who can hear a change in the way, who can hear the faintest flutter of a giant motor key.

Lindy had sat that night in the little car across from the cemetery. In his lap was $70,000.

He sat alone, while Dr. Condon went to meet the man who wrote the kidnapping notes. Quiet as a mouse, he stood, you knew, what that waiting meant. "The visibility was clear," said the ace of the air. But he couldn't tell how long it was no word.

"It was difficult for me to estimate time just then," he said—and you knew that ten minutes had been longer than the 30 hours he spent in his plane crossing the Atlantic.

He waited. Dr. Condon was meeting the kidnaper. The man who had his baby was only a few feet away. In a few moments he might know—in an hour he might see his son. Or something might go wrong. He could only wait—and he is not a good waiter, we can see that.

Of Another Baby Boy's Kidnaping

Voice "He Could Never Forget"

Then came the voice. It shouted Hey Doctor—Hey Doctor!

Everyone of Lindy's senses were sharpened by that waiting. That was the voice of the man who had stolen his baby. That was the voice of the man who knew where his baby was.

Would he ever forget it, will he ever forget it, won't it ring in his ears as long as he lives, in the very last hour of his life?

I think so.

And so when he said it was the voice of Bruno Hauptmann, a terrible shiver went over me. I on Talbot avenue, near Norwell looked at Hauptmann. He was staring at Lindbergh, as though fascinated.

When his eyes closed slowly, he seemed to have trouble getting the lid up again. But he got them up, and looked again at Lindbergh, pale and terrible and accusing on the witness stand, and he tried a smile and failed miserably.

Watching Lindy today in this court, I cannot believe he would swear away the life of any man, unless he was sure.

Yes, it was a big moment when Lindy identified the voice of Bruno Hauptmann. Perhaps the biggest moment the trial will know.

Woman in Crash

Mrs. Fanny Cressey, 55, of Whitton avenue, Hingham, suffered a fractured ankle today when the car which she was driving skidded on the ice and collided with a pole.

On Talbot avenue, near Norwell street.

Defense Lays Kidnaping to Gang of Five

Reilly Out To Prove Baby Was Carried Down the Stairs

By Associated Press
Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense, it became known today, will be based on a contention that the Lindbergh kidnaping was planned in the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh without the family's knowledge.

Said Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel:

"Five men, not one, committed the crime."

"The defense of Bruno Richard Hauptmann," announced, "will establish that he had nothing to do with the crime and that it was conceived in the Lindbergh home itself, but not by any member of the family."

"We will show that the kidnaping was planned and executed by a gang of five persons, whose names, naturally, we cannot disclose at this time."

"Furthermore, the defense will prove that the child was carried from its nursery down the stairs of the house and over a dory of the house rather than down the ladder, which the state contends was used in perpetration of the crime."

"We will show that this ladder was never used in the kidnaping, and will attack the authenticity of photographs allegedly depicting the marks it made in the soft earth beneath the nursery window."

Reilly said he will bring up the question of Violet Sharpe, the Lindbergh maid who committed suicide in the home of Mrs. Dwight V. Morrow at Englewood four hours before she was to have been questioned for the fourth time by state troopers.

Although Mrs. Lindbergh has championed her servants and described the maid as "bright and cheerful," Reilly said he will bring up several still unexplained crests of the girl's life and death.

Their every living moment—waking or sleeping—is carefully supervised by nine constables.

Their every move is rigidly prescribed and any departure from the routine set for them might have a result so catastrophic as to rock the nation.

WORLD IN SORROW AT MOTHER'S STORY

ANNE BARED HER SOUL AS SHE FOUGHT TEARS

By MARGARET GARRAHAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4.—Anne Morrow Lindbergh today has the world at her feet.

Slim, straight, fighting tears and clinging to poise . . . a mother touching little baby garments with a lightning almost a caress . . . baring her soul to the world at the command of the state—Anne yesterday placed a dainty finger on a hard world's heart and won.

"She's a thoroughbred . . ."

Throughout this little town, packed with hardened newspapermen accustomed to every conceivable scene, that thought is ringing.

"Did you ever see anything like it?" they are asking, still gazing at the most heart-clutching drama ever enacted before their eyes. Unobtrusively they admit to tears as they listened to her on the witness stand.

"I had no right to watch her," one woman said. "Only came to stare—why was I allowed to stay?" For so enthralled.

In a single stroke, metropolitan veneer has been wiped from the faces of those who have been so long in the witness stand to relieve one more the happiness that was hers with her first born.

Lightly she crossed the courtroom and took the chair. She forced herself to compose, sitting rigidly with knees crossed.

Finally, the tiny sleeping smile, clean as it was sent back by the kidnaper as "proof" . . . Anne leaped forward, took it and held it to her heart, and it did it across her lap and stroked it.

Bravely she went through it all, toting with the thumb guard lost from the suit by the fleeing kidnaper, identifying nursery pictures, gazing at a photograph of the murdered child and passing it back with a smothered sob.

Anne, still wearing mourning for her only sister, who died several weeks ago in California, appeared to be flustered when she first took the stand. She hurried to the chair and seated herself, forgetting the oath, and had to be recalled. Repeatedly she looked at her husband, who sat directly before her, and once she smiled at him.

Her ordeal over, Anne today sought escape from the prying eyes of yesterday in the seclusion of her English home.

Throughout her testimony she held all eyes, and none more so than those of Bruno Richard Hauptmann and his wife, the blonde Anne, whose thoughts, even as she listened, raced to her own

AMERICA MENACED BY RED REVOLT

Says Fr. Corrigan

PROPAGANDA PREPARES GROUND
FOR OVERTHROW HERE

(This is the fifth of a series of articles on Red Revolutionary Communism written for the Boston Evening American by the Rev. James J. Corrigan, S. J., professor of ethics and social science at Boston College.)

By THE REV. JAMES J. CORRIGAN, S. J.

Professor of Ethics and Social Science at Boston College
(Copyright, 1933, by the Boston Evening American)

Could America go Bolshevik?

This is an intriguing question at the present time. The answer is: Unless those national qualities which hitherto have prevented the abomination of the Godless Communists' absolute state are strengthened, instead of being weakened and sapped by Bolshevik propaganda, Communism will be triumphant.

That the Reds are running rampant in America is becoming clearer and clearer as the days go by.

One still hears it asserted:

"America will never go Communist. There is no fear of a Communist revolution in the United States. Americans are not built that way."

It is difficult to get rid of the idea that what has happened in Spain and Mexico is only a form which Communist revolution can take.

But the sort of revolution that starts with barricades and street slaughter and issues in despoilment is not the only kind of Communist revolution.

There is a revolution that takes place in the mind—gradual loss of traditional faith and the unconscious reversal of values proceeding without fuss until we suddenly discover that the old system is no longer worth preserving and that a thorough change is inevitable and desirable.

Thus, the revolution once thought impossible becomes an accomplished fact. And that is just what Communist propaganda is bringing to pass in our midst today.

Revolt Has Begun

The revolution has begun, with a speed and thoroughness, that would be terrifying had we but the eyes to visualize the process clearly. The theories and doctrines of atheistic Red revolutionary Communism are influencing the minds of masses of the American people.

And from theory to practice is a short and easy step once the ground has been well prepared.

And there is no question but that the ground is being well prepared in America by the far more effective propaganda. The writing is on the wall for all who will to read, and for our democratic institutions and civil liberties the writing conveys the grimness of warnings.

The extent of the propaganda is amazing. By direct institutions from Moscow, Communists are organizing units within the army and navy of the United States.

Within our trade unions, working diligently to bring them completely under the control of the Communist party, Communist cells are being formed in factories and workshops, the class war is being preached, untidily and Communists are urged to take over the leadership of the army of the unemployed.

Plan March

A new march on Washington is being planned right now by Red Communists for January 15. Attempts by Communists to cause dissatisfaction, even mutiny and rebellion among the country's armed forces was one of the starkest revelations made during the past month before the congressional committee investigating un-American practices.

"Some of the leaflets and pamphlets actually incite to mutiny, rebellion, sabotage and assassination. No matter where the fleet may go we find usually that the agitators have arrived ahead of us."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, testifying before the same committee said:

"The effort to sabotage the labor movement in the United States is in accord with direct orders from Red Moscow. Communist activities in this country if unchecked will inevitably develop to a dangerous point."

Green presented evidence presented evidence presented evidence of the effort Communist organizations were making to undermine trade unionism and get control of the organized trade labor movement in this country.

Congressman John McCormack, of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee, presented evidence of the violent and unlawful nature of Red activities in the United States. From all the testimony it is clear that the Reds are striking at the economic life of the nation and the welfare of every worker in it. If they are not restrained they will demoralize America's business and ruin America's workers.

Workers Confused

The workers are not to be blamed because they are bewildered, confused, intimidated and exploited by a sinister ring of Red conspirators.

It is plain the Reds do not want to purify the economic life of the country, but to tear down the whole economic structure. It is not their purpose to win strikes for the workers, but foment class hatred. It is their ambition to destroy free labor in America and substitute for it the forced labor of Soviet Russia.

The propaganda is found in Soviet's newspapers and magazines which are pouring from headquarters in ever increasing volume since the recognition of Red Russia by the United States.

The Red newspapers and such periodicals enjoy a large circulation in the United States.

Soviet Russia in obtaining recognition from the United States made a solemn pledge to stop propaganda in the United States. Instead of discontinuing its activities it has redoubled its efforts at revolution.

Calls for Remedy

This situation calls for an immediate remedy. The citizens of the United States are in duty bound to insist that our national government request the Russian government to fulfill its pledge. If the Soviet Union fails to comply with the request we should then demand our government rescind recognition. I can readily understand why Soviet Russia can laugh at its pledge when the United States government itself does not insist that it be enforced.

Every loyal American citizen has his part to play by demanding legislation from Congress to halt this Red propaganda, outlaw its authors, deny it the use of the United States mails and deport from our shores Red agitators who carry the flag of Red revolution by violence and bloodshed.

Only thus can America be saved. (Tomorrow, in his final article, Fr. Corrigan tells how America must deal with the Red Menace.)

HUEY STAX ON OIL MEETS FIRST REBUFF

By Universal Service

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 4 (AP)—Senator Huey P. Long's five-cent-a-barrel tax on the refining of oil met its first rebuff here as the Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana announced curtailment of its extensive operations here.

Decision to reduce operation at their huge Baton Rouge plant, representing a curtailment of several millions of dollars, came at a moment of representatives of more than 3000 employees.

The curtailment calls for the dismissal of employees and the closing down of several units of the plant. The oil company did not make public the number of men to be laid off.

MAINE SENATOR
E. P. Weeks Dead

Lawton, Me., Jan. 4 (AP)—State Senator E. P. Weeks, 57, Democrat, of Androscoggin County, died at his home early today after three days of illness. He succumbed to a heart attack. He was also a member of the Board of Aldermen in Lewiston.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Eva Weeks, and one daughter, Mrs. R. B. Roderick, Lewiston.

FIGHT On Crime LAUDED BY GEORGIA BAR HEAD

By GRAHAM WRIGHT
President of Georgia Bar Association

Crime is increasing in this state and throughout the nation at an alarming rate of speed. Our weapons of defense are pitifully inadequate. Antiquated laws and improper equipment of law enforcement officers offer a menace to the state far greater than it seems possible to impress on the minds of the people.

Rhyter lawyers connive with and advise members of the underworld in the criminal insurrection that is sweeping the country. Our people must be made to realize that they will soon be vassals in the hands of underworld rulers and killers unless they organize to fight back.

A criminal with a record as long as his arm may come into Georgia and if arrested here his past record cannot be used against him.

Little wonder they flock to a state with such liberal, antiquated laws.

Citizens Won't Serve

The greatest problem to those endeavoring to combat the crime problem is the fact that the better citizens refuse to serve on juries. In fact, they apparently have no idea of their obligation to law enforcement.

That is, unless law violation affects them personally. Then they rise up and howl to the skies for something to be done.

It is up to the press and the educational institutions of the country to apprise the people of the danger confronting them.

The Hearst papers have done a great service in their concerted drive to awaken the people. It is to be hoped that they continue the fight.

GARY LEON SUES Dancer Asks Divorce

Los Angeles, Jan. 4.—Gary Leon, the dancer whose name has figured in the Fay Webb-Rudy Vallee matrimonial squabble, took the first legal step here toward separation from his show-biz bride, Marion Mitchell, by filing a divorce action.

Extreme cruelty, nagging and constant jealousy, is charged in the complaint.

The couple married in Detroit, December 14, 1932, and separated last April 1.

Strict, Sure Punishment Seen as Crime Cure

By WALTER B. BEALS
Chief Justice, Washington State Supreme Court

Our treatment of Criminals after they are convicted is the greatest weakness in our present system, I believe.

The penalty for crime should be punishment and it should be exactly that. Our prisons should be relaxation centers for felons.

Paroles should not be assured prisoners as a matter of right. Nor should they come so speedily. A man should know that if convicted he would serve a major part of the sentence imposed by the court and that no parole would be forthcoming except as a reward for good behavior and then only to those men who give indication that they may become good citizens.

No second offender should be eligible for parole under any circumstances, and none should be given adult serving time for first or second degree murder, first degree assault, burglary, robbery, rape or arson.

Punishment should be swift and sure and to make it speedier the Washington State Supreme Court has drastically revised the rules of procedure so that instead of having 90 days in which to give notice of appeal, a criminal defendant has but five.

And all appeals received during a current term of court are heard at the end of that term instead of going over to the following term. These rules make it impossible for a prosecutor to grant favors to a criminal and thereby indefinitely extend the period between his conviction and the time that he goes to prison.

systems and in constructing national highways designed to handle modern traffic.

"In the stimulation of grade crossings;

"On the extension and enlargement of the successful work of the civilian conservation corps;

"In non-federal work, mostly self-liquidating and highly useful to local divisions of government.

And on many others which the nation needs and can not afford to neglect.

"AMERICAN PLAN"

Presenting as "American plan for the American people," the President proposed that the government assure security of livelihood, against hazards, and security of decent homes—a program of "American plan."

"The federal government must and shall quit this business of relief," he emphasized.

President Roosevelt read his message to Congress today.

which because of many lost years will take many future years to finish.

He said the new work relief effort "fits logically and usefully into the long range permanent policy of providing the three types of security."

"The federal government must and shall quit this business of relief," he emphasized.

SELF RESPECT AT STAKE

"I am not willing that the vitality of our people be further sapped by the giving of cash or marked baskets, or a few hours of weekly work cutting grass or raking leaves or picking up papers in the public parks. We must preserve not only the bodies of the unemployed from destitution but also their self-respect, their self-reliance and courage and determination.

"This decision brings me to the problem of what the government should do with approximately 5,000,000 unemployed now on the relief rolls."

He said that 1,000,000 of these belonged in the past on local and state welfare rolls.

"It is my thought," he added, "that in the future they must be cared for as they were before. I shall ready through personal efforts, and through the personal influence of the office that Representative Snell, of New York, Republican leader of the House.

I hold, to help these local agencies to get the money necessary to assume this burden."

For the other 4,000,000 the President proposed that

All emergency public works shall be utilized in a single new and greatly enlarged plan."

He proposed that the agency take over the federal administration and that the latter be liquidated immediately.

Mr. Roosevelt reserved for his budget message to be delivered on Monday the exact amount of funds wanted for the gigantic new work relief program but he said:

"I assure you now that the (figure) will be within the sound credit of the government."

REPORTS GAIN

The President, in his address, reaffirmed his belief in the "profit motive," but warned against wealth "which, through excessive profits, creates undue private power over private affairs, and, to our misfortune, over public affairs as well."

He reported "more gains have been" in the coming year.

No attempt was made to outline a general legislative program, but a promise was given to propose definite legislation covering unemployment and old age insurance, as well as "benefits for children, for mothers," and other aspects of social security.

Other subjects listed for future attention were "renewal and clarification" of the Recovery Act, under which NRA operates; consolidation of Federal regulation of all forms of transportation; abolition of the evil features of utilities holding companies and tapping off of Federal credit activities.

With that, he said the nation has made headway toward the "new order," and spoke of increased industrial production, of the new agriculture and "profits" to merchants.

Then came the warning: "Let him, who for speculative profit or partisan purpose, without just cause, attempt to disturb or dispel this assurance, take heed before he assumes responsibility for any act which slows our onward steps."

In the foreign field, Mr. Roosevelt reported an unsettled situation.

"On the surface of things many old jealousies are re-erected, old passions aroused; new strivings for armament and power, in more than one land, rear their ugly heads."

"I believe, however, that our own peaceful and unselfish attitude toward other nations is beginning to be understood and appreciated."

HIS "NEW SYSTEM"

It was the way he addressed himself to the relief question that caught main Capitol attention.

The principles which will govern the "new system" to replace FERA, he outlined thus:

"1—All work undertaken should be useful—not just for a day, or a year, but useful in the sense that it affords permanent improvement in living conditions or that it creates future new wealth for the nation."

"2—Compensation on emergency work should be such as to preserve harmony with the White House plan to see a compromise, the indications are that the Federal bill will be accepted substantially.

Rep. Doughton (D.) of North Carolina, chairman of the committee, hopes for a compromise measure.

"We will consider the bonus at an early date," he said, "I favor taking these controversial issues and disposing of them. It is my belief, however, that the simple printing press money."

Of the seven new Democrats elected to the committee, four are for the bonus and currency expansion, one is opposed, one is undecided and one could not be reached.

How They Voted

The committee lineup was shown by the poll to be:

For cash payment—14
Against—5
Non-committal—7

Unrecorded—2

Those favoring cash payments include McCormack (D.) Massachusetts.

Non-committal—Treadway (R.), Massachusetts.

McCormack favors either the Patman bill, which calls for issuance of Treasury "greenbacks" or some controlled currency expansion plan.

Treadway is non-committal on the inflation issue. Patman bill are expected to begin within three weeks.

Democratic leaders have already assured bonus advocates of a vote in the House if the committee reports the bill.

Gloicester, Jan. 4.—Anthony Pias, 55, of 67 Friend street, drowned at sea today when a dory in which he was fishing capsized.

He was waiting to be picked up by a schooner when he was thrown overboard as the dory capsized.

Frank Rose of the "Natalie Hammond" recovered the body.

MANHOLE Explodes, Flames

When an explosion in a manhole opposite the Manger Hotel at Causeway and Portland streets put out the lights in the district and broke several windows in the neighborhood, pedestrians and diners in a nearby restaurant narrowly escaped injury.

A small fire kindling the blast was fought for an hour by firemen.

Roosevelt Points

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Striking sentences from President Roosevelt's message to Congress today:

"Historically, I can report to you substantial benefits to our agricultural population, increased industrial activity, and profits to our merchants."

"The attempt to make a distinction between recovery and reform is a narrow view of the effort to substitute the appearance of reality for reality itself."

"We have... a clear mandate from the people that Americans must forsake that conception of the acquisition of wealth which, through excessive profits, creates undue private power over private affairs and, to our misfortune, over public affairs as well."

"The sound use of land and water is far more comprehensive than the mere planting of trees, building of dams, distributing of electricity or retirement of sub-marginal land."

"We can not afford to lose valuable time in haphazard public policies which can not find a place in the broad outlines of these major purposes."

"The Federal Government must and shall quit this business of relief."

"It is my thought that with the exception of normal public building operations of the government, all emergency public works shall be unified in a single new and greatly enlarged plan."

"We have already begun to feel the bracing effect upon our economic system of a restored agriculture."

"I can not with candor tell you that general international relations outside our borders are improved."

"I believe, however, that our own peaceful and neighborly attitude towards other nations is coming to be understood and appreciated."

"The ledger of the past year shows many more gains than losses."

Leo Anastas, 7, of London street, East Boston, suffered severe injuries today when he was struck by a truck at Meridian and Harvard streets, not far from his home.

Joseph L. Nichols of Scituate street, East Boston, alleged driver of the truck, took the boy to East Boston Relief Station. The boy now is in the hospital.

Internal injuries and a fracture of the pelvis.

RUSSIA Has Plenty TO EAT

FOOD QUALITY IMPROVES

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

Moscow, Jan. 4.—Forty men waited in line to enter the restaurant. They waited to wade through rubbish to a filthy table and then enjoy a plate of cabbage boiled without a trace of fat, and a herring dried hard enough to drive a nail.

The meal was filled in with stacks of black bread. It was topped off with a little puddle of unspiced treacle.

That was a meal your correspondent ate here in 1930. That was the picture in every restaurant for many years ago. That meal was the best that anybody not a foreigner could buy. That was what Moscow was eating. Today an eight-piece band plays in that same restaurant, and it alternates with gypsy singers. On the menu are beef and mutton and pork, and salmon and sturgeon, and vegetables and salad.

All Are Cleaner

That restaurant too is today above the average, but all the restaurants in Moscow have had a Turkish bath, haircut and manicure. They are cleaner than Moscow restaurants have ever been under Soviet rule, and they are supplied with an abundance and a fair variety of food.

There were offered eight kinds of coffee, plain, with milk, with whipped cream, in the Warsaw, Vienna or Turkish style, with rum, or with cognac; tea, plain or with jam; cocoa, chocolate; eight kinds of soft drinks; six sorts of pastries; two kinds of ice-cream; seven varieties of sandwiches; eggs with ham, cheese or sausage.

Prices ran from 50 kopecks for a glass of tea to five rubles 50 kopecks for ham and eggs. That is a dish of ham and eggs was eaten cost a workman nearly a full day's wages. Workmen could not eat here, but there were plenty of Soviet citizens who could.

This is the first time since the plan came into power that Russians have had any provision made for the leisurely enjoyment of such luxuries as the dining room.

Factory Kitchens

Much more important for the feeding of Moscow is the fact that nearly 2,000,000 dinner duty are served in public dining rooms from central public kitchens. Out on the Leningrad Channel, for one, is Moscow's 25 "factory kitchens." It serves 30,000 workers daily and prepares an additional 50,000 hot breakfasts for school children.

(Another Knickerbocker article in an early edition.)

Held as Fugitive

Herbert E. Logan 24 of Turin, Ct., arrested here Sunday when police found intruder in his room, was charged in a warrant with being a fugitive from justice in New Haven, Ct.

New Haven authorities want to question him in connection with a fire in a New Haven hotel last August, causing a loss of $150,000.

Mansfield On Air

Mayor Mansfield will establish a precedent some evening next week, date to be determined later when he will go on the air and give the citizens of Boston a detailed report of his work in that office during the past year. At the same time he will outline plans for the second year of his administration, now beginning.

Welfare Cost Up

Expenditures of the municipal welfare department for the week ending last Saturday were $243,141, as compared with $238,253 during the same period one year ago. There were 29,232 cases, representing more than 100,000 men, women and children on the lists last week as compared with 28,925 cases during the same period last year.

First Auto Death

Providence, R. I., Jan. 4.—The first automobile fatality for 1935 in Providence occurred here when Basile Johnson, 32, was knocked down and killed by a hit-and-run driver while she was crossing Blackstone boulevard.

Killed by Trolley

South Portland, Me., Jan. 4.—Paul Burke, 50, was killed when he stepped backward into the path of a Portland-South Portland trolley to avoid being struck by an approaching auto.

Love Blanks Yanks

Having invested no considerable amount in the training of Harvard's Charlie Devens as a professional baseballer, the New York Yankees must now seek consolation for his loss.

Married, he has turned from the pitcher's mound to mounds of coin in the banking business. Picture was snapped as Mrs. Devens returned from honeymoon on the Italian liner Rex. (Picture from International News Photograph News Service.)

ORDEAL UNNERVES BETTY GOW

By Associated Press

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4.—The ordeal from which Anne Lindbergh emerged bravely today left Betty Gow, nurse of Anne's kidnapped baby, so shaken she could not leave.

The young Scotch girl, last member of the Lindbergh household to see the child alive, sat with quivering lips as Mrs. Lindbergh's cable voice reviewed the tragedy for 45 minutes yesterday at the Hauptmann trial.

The nurse, who was next on the prosecution's list of witnesses, responded when Attorney General Edward T. Willems said:

"Will Miss Betty Gow please take the stand?"

She crossed the courtroom to a chair near the prosecution table. The attorneys leaned toward her anxiously and conferred.

Then Willems announced:

"If the court please, I will call Colonel Lindbergh's nurse."

Miss Gow, trembling, went back to her place beside Mrs. Lindbergh.

She was not affected by Mrs. Lindbergh's testimony that she thought it advisable to tell Colonel Lindbergh, Willems said later.

HEADS SHOE MEN

McWeeney Honored

The New England Council of Shoe Manufacturers and Retailers announced the election of Marcus V. McWeeney, manager of the shoe department of E. W. Howard, to the post of honor for Jordan Marsh Co., a prominent department and shoe store in Boston.

In accepting the office, Mr. McWeeney said that it was his aim to foster even greater goodwill among the shoe buyers and the shoe retailers of the New England States.

Tobacco Smokes

Ten employees of the Allen-Flaherty Co., Inc., cigar manufacturers, were coming to leave their workshop at 549 Shawmut avenue when fire caused by defective wiring set off the sprinkler alarm. Tobacco that was not wet broke out in a break blaze but was soon extinguished by firemen.

Whols Dean of Safe Drivers?

Who merits the title of dean of safe automobile drivers in Massachusetts?

The governor's committee on street and highway safety wants to know.

One candidate for the title suggested by the committee is Fred B. Bartlett of Lexington. He has driven a car for 35 years without a single accident.

A rival is James J. Cafferty of 78 Redington street, Swampscott, who has the longest driving experience having driven a Stanley Steamer in 1903. He has had one minor accident.

Charles H. Martin of Morgan road, West Springfield says he has driven a car for 26 years and has never even so much as dented the hub cap of any person's car.

LABOR LAUDS AIMS OF GOVERNOR

Robert J. Watt, legislative agent for the state federation of labor, today lauded the Currier inaugural message, saying:

"The major recommendations contained in the inaugural address of Governor Currier should meet with the vigorous approval of the average citizen."

"The organized was earnestly greeted with enthusiasm his specific proposals for legislation on the issue of liquor, the state recovery act, school leaving age and workers' compensation."

"As important as are these proposals, is the expression of the new governor to grapple with basic problems of social and economic relationship. He not only has recognized their existence, but he has framed corrective suggestions which go far toward their solution."

Toys Asked by Tots Whom Santa Forgot

The Swap Editor writes in a discouraged mood. The mail is so overwhelmingly filled with appeals.

Some youngsters write:

"Could you send some old toys to us poor children, we never get any for Christmas. Please send Mother some clothes size 44, she is in it."

"We are very poor and need bed clothes. We only have coats to put on and we are nearly frozen."

The children are aged, girls 14, 12, 11, 10, 8, and a boy 8. A desperate mother asks for her children's boy's suit, size 36; shirts, size 35; boy's shoes, size 8 1/2; for her daughter of 13 she asks clothes, size 15, shoes size 6; for her boy of 10, size 11 clothes; and for her husband she wishes a suit, size 44; shoes 8 1/2, 15 1/2 shirts.

The aunt of a girl, whose dad is dying, appeals for a coat, size 14. A Roxbury woman who says her husband hasn't a shoe on his foot pleads for shoes for him, size 7 1/2, and for a suit, size 38, as well as an overcoat, size 40.

A wife whose husband has long been out of employment requests overcoats for him, size 7; shoes size 6, and a suit and overcoat, size 40.

Now, for America.. A REVOLUTIONARY NEW HIGH-SPEED SAFETY CAR

New 1935 Plymouth on Display Tomorrow

This New Car Offers You:

New high-efficiency Engine... gives more power on 12% to 20% less gas and oil.

Highest Compression Ratio of any car... without the penalty of premium gasoline.

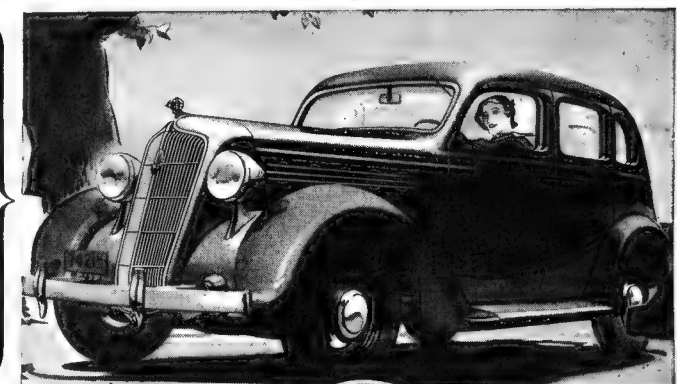

New Torpedo-type Body... of Safety-Steel from top to bottom. Seats 3" wider, floors 3" lower for added riding comfort.

Improved Hydraulic Brakes stop quicker. Centrifuge Drums make linings last longer.

New Synco-Silent Transmission. New-type Clutch needs 30% less pedal pressure.

New Mola Steel Front Springs and New Weight Distribution give "Floating Ride."

New Sidesway Eliminator keeps car on "even keel"—gives new safety on curves.

engineers call a "lower vibration rate."

Actually, that means you don't bounce and jounce around the way you've been used to.

The new distribution of weight has been accomplished by placing the engine more directly over the front axle. The new-type springs reduce the oscillation frequency to 92 per minute, compared to 135 per minute in an ordinary car.

The sway eliminator at the front keeps the car on an "even keel" at all times... gives you new safety on curves. New "double action" shock absorbers further improve the riding comfort by controlling "spring bounce."

That's why you ride completely relaxed... at all speeds... in the new Plymouth.

You need speed. But speed alone is not enough. You need a car that is quick moving and fast stopping. You need much easier control and quicker response.

And to guard against the other fellow's carelessness, you need greater protection.

front bumper to tail-light... not just a reconstructed chassis.

The "Floating Ride": What It Does

You've never before driven a car like this. It actually "glides" over the bumps and ruts in the road.

This new kind of "Floating Ride" is made possible by new, scientific weight distribution... the development of an ingenious new sidesway eliminator... and the use of new Mola Steel front springs. Technically, you ride at what

World's Safest Low-priced Car

The new 1935 Plymouth... world's most beautiful low-priced car. The first car designed to meet the Traffic Problem of today's crowded highways.

1935 Plymouth deserves to be called "The World's Safest Low-Priced Car."

A Real Work of Art

Never before has a low-priced car been so strikingly beautiful. The whole car is streamlined... smartly so. It has long, graceful, flowing lines... and modern Airplane-type Fenders.

The body is torpedo-shaped... a symphony of beauty. It hurtles through the air with a minimum of wind resistance.

We can't describe it... you've got to experience it... the thrill you get when you step on the accelerator of this wonderful new Plymouth.

60-70-80 and it seems like 50. The improved engine has the highest compression ratio of any car... without penalty of premium gasoline. Yet due to directional water circulation, calibrated ignition and the use of full-cylinder-length water jackets, gas and oil consumption is reduced 12% to 20%.

Shift the gears and notice the startling smoothness of Synco-Silent Transmission. Even the clutch operates with 30% less foot pressure. Step on the brakes and "feel" the instant, even Hydraulic action on all four wheels.

No wonder that this sensational new

The entire body is made of steel... welded into one solid unit for your 100% safety. Frame and body are joined together in 46 places... and the body fits down over the frame instead of merely resting on it as it does in ordinary cars.

Adele Garrison's Serial Given in Marriage

MADGE WORRIES ABOUT DELAY OF EDITH AND DICKY

CHAPTER 213
Junior's shrill voice, asking for his father and commenting upon the fact that he had not seen him at the beach, had much the same effect upon our little group as a thunderbolt might have had.

It effectively silenced the conversational hum which the return of the children had set in motion, and for a few seconds there came an eternity, nobody spoke.

But I could feel that if the physical eyes in the room were considerably turned away from me, the mental ones were not. Almost everyone in the room knew of Edith's hospitalization for Dicky, and I knew that as involuntary query was forming in each mind as to what my reaction would be to my small son's question.

In the first years of my marriage that knowledge would have brought me to the verge of panic; but years and experience have disciplined me, so that I was able to reply with apparent nonchalance to Junior.

WHY DICKY HADN'T RETURNED

"Did heart come home yet, I told him. 'He'll probably be along in a few minutes. If he comes before you go to sleep, I'll have him come up to see you. Otherwise, you will have to wait until morning.'"

"Aww, Mamma," Junior said in the mechanical fashion common to all small boys trying to extract the maximum drop of privilege from a source which they know to be dry. "Do we have to go to bed right away?"

"Fixed him with a glittering eye," as I asked. "Are you trying to make me sorry that I gave you the privilege of going to the beach with the group tonight, which was long past your bedtime?"

Junior wriggled as he mumbled a perfunctory but contrite, "I'm sorry, Mamma," then Rodrick quivered another note familiar to all women in charge of small boys and girls.

"We're awful hungry, Auntie Marge," he said, with a hopeful intonation in his voice. "We didn't get a chance to eat much supper. Why, I only had two pieces of cake! Is there any left?"

With an effort I kept my lips from twitching. "Yes, there is plenty of cake left. You shall have some tomorrow. But tonight we have the rules—no rich food at this late hour. If you're really hungry, you will enjoy some bread and butter and jam, or some corned beef and milk. Come along to the kitchen and I'll prepare you something."

"Nothing doing," Lillian interposed emphatically. "You're as near the exhaustion as you can get. You can be and not pass out. You got into the house and lie down, or better still, go to bed. I'll see to the boys."

"What's the matter with the younger generation, darling?" Marion queried. "I'd love to fix to bed, but I don't like it."

"You'd better go to bed hungry kids," Bob advised paternalistically. "These modern kids may know enough to spread butter on bread, but I doubt it."

"That speech alerts you to some work," Carolyn told him. "We'll see how many a butter knife you can swing."

EXOTIC SKIN TONE

Evening Powder Gives Luminous Glow to Face

By THE BEAUTY EDITOR

That fresh-as-a-daisy look is all very well for the bridge table, the ski jump and the cocktail bar, but how about a touch of real glamour for those hours after dark when you get dressed up to go places and do things?

That alabaster-look which most women have been trying to acquire since cradle days (and which only a few seem to have achieved) has actually been captured in an evening powder that gives an exotic, luminous effect to the skin while under electric lights.

It's the most dazzling powder we've yet seen, and was told that it is equally daisy-pretty—particularly to the male of your choice—on either blonde or brunette. It has an overtones of green and all I can say is that if you've got an ounce of glamour in your frame, this powder will bring it out.

Ever since a child we've marvelled at that Dresden-doll quality about certain blonde women in the evening. It was only last summer that we discovered this flattering radiance was due to a mauve powder, which, however, was very costly. You told us about the discovery at the time. Now along comes an even better "find."

If you are looking for a powder that will give your complexion an alabaster-look, this is the one for you. It is as soft as a kitten's ear and as large as a box costs only a dollar.

To learn the name of the dazzling evening powder with a green overtone call Miss Shelby, Liberty 4000, or write to the Beauty Editor, Boston Evening American, Boston, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

Frock Has FRONT AND Back INTEREST

By MARION MARTIN

It's a dress with both back and front interest—this smart one-piece design that looks for all the world as though it were two pieces.

Pattern 9224 may be ordered in sizes 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 36 is shown.

(1) Just about right for a vulnerable noirpump.

(2) North raises the noisette rather than shows his head to set up the most encouraging bid. He is a little interested in a possible five-club contract and therefore has no point to sidestep the defense by showing suit.

West quite naturally opened the spade Queen and South immediately saw that he would have a difficult time to fulfill his contract. He quite correctly held up both his Ace and King of spades on the opening lead, but was forced to win the continuation.

South realized he had just one hope, assuming that the spade suit was divided 5-3 with West, the opening leader, holding the five cards, which of course seemed most likely. To get into tricks South knew he had to set up the club suit, and since the assumption was that the high club honors were divided, it was necessary to remove West's entry before that of East.

To do this South first entered dummy by leading the diamond and winning with the Queen. He then led the club from dummy hoping that the club would automatically give the maxim which save "secretly hold low" and not go up with his high honors. Fortune went to the trick and thus removing West's last in-card before the spade suit was established, if West held the heart Ace nothing could be done about the situation anyway.

East, however, was far too keen to fall for South's well conceived plan of attack. East knew that the contract could not be defeated unless his partner held an entry, and the club King moving South's last stopper, East played his Ace as the one way of defeating the contract. South was now doomed to go down.

Jumping Up With an Ace

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Since the preservation of entries in the right hand is one of the most important features of good defensive play, I feel that I cannot possibly give too many hands covering such situations.

On the very interesting deal given below South played the hand in such a manner as to make East's task as difficult as possible, but the latter player was equal to the occasion and jumped up with an Ace at the right time, thus preserving his partner's only entry card to run his suit after it was established.

The declarer's line of play to prevent this from occurring was well conceived, indeed, and it would have worked against all but the keenest of opponents.

IS WOMAN'S FREEDOM A FLAT FAILURE?

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

I flew to Washington and back not long ago. As usual I was air sick. As usual the inconvenience to my organs started me pondering on the merits and defects—chiefly defects—of the modern day system of freedom that enables young women to fly when they want to, to work when they want, to live where they want to.

Today with nice, solid earth under me once more, and my insides more or less calm, I can view the pros and cons of female freedom with judicial impartiality at it from behind a masculine shoulder.

It is difficult for us moderns to realize that once upon a time—about a century ago—once upon a time either—the appearance of a woman in a saloon for saloon read "bar"—was more shock making and ungentle.

Equal rights in freedom have conferred equal rights in drinking. Most female members of the drinking fraternity can hold their own—and stand their own—with the best of the male liquor experts.

A woman's peace and tranquillity of the cow-like brand, but to the mentality of a nervous procedure as improvement?

So much for advantages. (It's a little doubtful as to whether

ORANGES Best Fruit Buy of Season

From Martha Lee's Friday

By MARTHA LEE

DO YOU like oranges?
Brought up on them as
most people are from infancy
we take them as a necessary part of our food
—and a favorite one at that!

Each year they become more plentiful and mass displays of this golden fruit on fruit stands and in grocers'
windows bring the good news
that Mother Nature is now pouring a bumper crop of oranges into the national fruit basket.

Size, it is interesting to know,
is determined by climate and other factors that the grower cannot control. The same trees bear a larger proportion of big oranges one year and little ones
the next, all fruit having the same quality. The fruit most abundant in any season is the best buy.

ORANGE BAVARIAN CREAM
1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 cup orange juice and pulp
1 cup cream
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve by adding cup containing mixture in hot water. Add to orange juice and pulp. Add lemon juice, sugar and salt. When it begins to thicken, fold in whipped cream and turn into mold to become firm.

ORANGE SALAD DRESSING
1/2 cup sugar
4 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1-2 teaspoon paprika
1 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup lemon juice

Mix dry ingredients, add orange juice slowly and cook over hot water until thick. Add butter and when melted add lemon juice. Remove from stove. Beat with rotary beater.

LAMB CHOPS WITH ORANGES
8 lamb chops
Salted butter
Sliced oranges
Salt, pepper, paprika
Wipe and trim lamb chops.
Dip in melted butter and place on broiler and broil under hot flame for eight minutes. Turn and place a thick slice of peeled orange on each chop. Broil eight minutes longer. Season with salt, pepper and paprika.

Answer: MRS. L. M. F.
It is impossible to give a fac-

heat down fatty tissues and cause
the fatty tissue of blood to circulate through the flabby muscles.

Oddly, with his own transition, the attitude of the crowd has changed from hoots and boos to squeals and cheers.

Lately many of those who swore a high and holy oath on the night of the "Ace" Bailey tragedy never, never to patronize the Bruins again, have come trickling back. Mercifully, for the commercial health of the game, sport followers are seldom haters!

Mr. Boston O'Mahoney Can Start Mat Boom

By Jack Conway

IF DAN O'MAHONEY, Irish heavyweight wrestling champion, is able to score a victory over Ernie Dusk at the Garden tonight, he will start a new wrestling boom.

O'Mahoney can become even a greater card than Gus Sonnenberg was when in his prime. He has youth, strength, agility and the courage of a real Irish champion.

O'Mahoney's rise to stardom is like a page from an adventure story. He is 37, but inside of 17 minutes while a member of the Irish Free State army, he then made the great "Strangler"

Mr. Boston Lewis quit in his dressing room. The Bremen, one of the fastest of the transatlantic liners, rushed O'Mahoney to New York. A specially chartered plane carried the Irish champion to Ireland to Boston.

O'Mahoney didn't hand pick his opponent for tonight's match. He was named Ernie Dusk, and the Irish champion accepted him. He does not believe Dusk will prove too tough.

The Garden should be filled by a roaring crowd of mat fans when O'Mahoney and Dusk shoot into action.

The Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser will receive 2 1/2 per cent of the receipts.

2 RING SHOWS

THERE WILL be two boxing shows next week. The Goodwin A.C. will feature Max Baer against Dick Madden at Mechanics Building on Thursday night, while the Garden will stage a tussle between Bob Olin, world's light heavyweight champion, and Fannie Tannous, the "Greek Terror," on Friday night.

The Olin-Fannie go will be an eventful affair. Fannie is a result Olin's title will not be at stake.

LOU BROULLIARD

The history of boxing in this city proves that when two ring shows are billed for the same night, one or both of them is sure to prove a failure.

It would be wise for the noble boxing promoters to avoid such conflicts now that the season is beginning to show signs of new life.

One big show a week, and possibly a second show at a small club such as Dick Duff's operators at the Rickard Recreation Center, can go over successfully.

Incidentally, Dunn also stepped into the picture with the announcement that he would meet Tannous, who will donate his end of the purse to the Christmas Basket Fund. If the event he fails to stop the "Greek Terror."

MCCOY SIGNS

AL MCCOY of Dorchester, who recently knocked out "Buck" Tracy, will have some outstanding boxer as an opponent in a ten-round bout on the Goodwin A.C. card. Rip Valenti is negotiating with George Nichols of Buffalo.

MCCOY showed brilliant form as he belted Tracy out of the picture. He is boxing and punching well, and looks as if he is headed for the flint heights.

Jack McCarthy of Roxbury will also appear on the Goodwin Clubs card.

Buddy Baer will make his second Boston ring appearance when he meets an opponent to be named by Matchmaker Valenti today.

OLIN'S BOW

BOB OLIN, who takes on the "Greek Terror" at the Garden show, is an aggressive, two-fisted puncher. He won the world's light heavyweight title when he disposed of Maxie Rosenbloom over the 15-round route.

The "Greek Terror" is a better puncher than Olin, and will rely on his right hand sock to win. Olin will receive a guarantee of $3000 and a percentage privilege.

Trojan Raid Fails

Visitations Win Out

TRUPIN, V. KELLEY, T. BOLLERMAN, V. A scoring raid by the Trojans fails as Al Kelley's shot misses the Visitation Club's basket, of the Arena. The Visitations won, 35 to 33, in a thrilling pro league contest.

By Bob Ahearn

Carl Husta, latest acquisition of the Boston Trojans, made the fans attending the Brooklyn Visitation-Trojans clash at the Arena forget all about the loss of St. Nick's.

Husta gave one of the greatest exhibitions ever displayed on a local court. Right from the start he was in an every play and he accounted for 16 of the first 17 points made by the Trojans.

His superhuman efforts went for naught, as the Trojans were edged, 35 to 33, in a fast contest.

The locals stopped out in front in the middle of the final stanza 20 to 23, but only for a short time. With Herson and Johnson leading the attack, the invaders put on speed to stop out in front and win.

This evening, at Newport, R. I. the Trojans engage the New Britain in an exhibition game. Tomorrow they encounter the Philadelphia Hebrews at the Garden.

The next home game is called for Monday night, with the New Britain Jackaways furnishing the opposition.

Philadelphia Colored Giants basketball team combat the New England Pros at Norwood tonight. The latter five formerly played under the name of Norwood Pros and are managed by the popular Doc Thayer.

Those Swampscott Maroons are a classy group of basketball quints. In a prelude at the Arena they took the Holy Trinity Club of Lawrence into camp, 10 to 10.

The "Greek Terror" recently posted $2000 with the Boston Commission to bind a bout with one of the leading light heavyweights.

It is being said at the Garden tonight, I want to get a glimpse of O'Mahoney.

SPORT THRIVES IN MANCHESTER

By Ed Cogswell

Joseph Hynes, treasurer of the New England Bowling Association, asked the writer to take a trip to Manchester, N. H., and visit some of the clubs located in that city and in towns en route. The invitation was accepted.

Hynes is a most important bowling promoter in New England. In Manchester we found the bowling fans greatly enthused over the fine plant recently erected there. It is happily named after the city, being called the Queen City Alley.

F. J. Libby, the manager, said that all of the 28 alleys are busy every evening. As a sample of the size of the leagues in action he named the McElwain Shoe Co., having 30 teams in action. McElwain himself is greatly interested in the sport, and willing at any time to take on the best in a match game.

Another prominent firm represented on the alley is the Ameskeag Co., with 20 teams.

On the way back we stopped over in Lawrence to see "Pop" Delane, one of the veterans in the bowling sport. Very little is seen of the college game in Lawrence. The alley devotees taking to the duck pin for their small ball dexterity.

It was a battle to the finish between the J. O. O'Brien and the J. V. Fletcher teams in the Faneuil Hall League, for when it was all over, and the final figuring made, it was found that the O'Brien five had won the match by only 15 pins, the score being 1547 to 1532.

Rowin was high flogger in the O'Brien with 243, while Walter led the Fletchers with his 324.

A great race is on in the Faneuil League, with only five points separating the second team in the league, and the next seven following.

South Station appears to be taking the laurels in the Greater Boston League, with its Fitzgerald leading in the singles with 149, and the three strings with 360, while the teams total is the best with 1553.

With Cashman able to cover the center post, Merl Rice, who has been tapping for the Huskies, will move back to his natural berth at guard to team with Al Motovil.

Hy Burstein of Chelsea will be shifted to forward and will pair with Jay Hart if Morse is unable to play.

The starting quintet for the freshmen will not be announced until after tonight's practice. The Huskies face a senior team composed of members of the 1933-34 team.

DINGWELL BOLSTERS TEAM IN NET

By Walter Kiley

Northeastern University expects to turn the tables on Boston College as they cross sticks on Arena ice in their second melee of the hockey season—tonight.

Two weeks ago, the score was deadlocked, 4-4, when the Huskies accidentally kicked a loose puck into their own net, thereby handing a hard fought victory to the Eagles.

Nelson Raymond, Husky coach, feels certain he has found the solution to his most immediate problem. His new tonight will be guided by Bill Dingwell of Milton, a veteran of two years' playing.

Bill is expected to stave off the flying shots which wended their way into the strings for goals in the previous engagement.

The Huskies will present the same forward line of Captain Ken Cahoon, Charlie Letourneau and Charlie Kussman.

Fred Patten of Melrose will alternate with Charlie Redden of Jamaica Plain on the second line. Dan Callahan and John Blake remain their forward pairs on this line. Raymond and Bergamini are Peter Murphy takes the place of Tom Sharkey of Milton in the first line, while the last line of the second line where he will play.

Seek HIGHER Rates

The strong language in which the request for higher rail rates was worded is seen as partly responsible for the disheartening performance of carrier shares.

The new association of American Railroads, which John J. Poley, former New Haven president, heads, wasted few words in requesting a rise in rates.

Stating that increased revenue to the amount of $170,000,000 is needed, or the effect of railroad credit will be disastrous to the association.

Frankly bases its plea on the premise that if other industries are allowed to pass on higher costs to consumers, it also should be allowed that privilege.

There is little doubt that John J. Poley many holders of rail securities saw the awesome specter of bankruptcy in news from an official quarter that rail costs in the aggregate will have increased $170,000,000 in the last year.

Believing that the association encouraged not naturally made an appearance and is likely to continue dribbling the general market over the near term. The principal reason to remember when handling such news items is that a strong case necessitates painting a bleak picture of rail earnings and costs.

A heartier and weaker worded plea would hardly accomplish anything.

Shorts: The sour note in the rail picture may, however, interfere with our ideas on the general market. As a matter of precaution we suggest that the 30-35 level on the 30 rails be watched closely.

The drive should not be broken on the downside. Utilities and fuel wobbles along in uncertain fashion with all the manner of a crowd that has no place to go and is using it to its advantage.

Industrials still rule the favorites.

The usual cycle of a rising market is well under way, but in contrast to other periods, it is slightly less uniform. After being in the usual lineup is lower money rate, advancing high grade bond prices followed by second grade, advancing prices for preferred shares, then higher price levels for common stocks, followed by rising commodity prices and finally rising raising prices for real estate. The difference between the 1935 and 1936 periods have already done one or two of the things that the 1935 period did not do.

The bond period did not do the preferred bond.

Briefs: In reference to the above it is also notable that the preferreds have had a much better rise than most observers realize. The second grade shares and the bonds are lagging. It is in these two sections that the bond investors should be able to dig out some profitable opportunities.

As for the term "Commons" in the course, have wandered around with the exception of a few, almost all the middle of 1935. In time alone, judged by the past, nearly long enough.

Machines too: Investors are looking forward to the new plant modernization drive as a sure providing of increased volume in 1936. In 1935 looking for the industry were estimated at about 60 per cent higher than in 1933 and the opening up of the field suggests that manufacturers who have delayed will be forced into action by competitors. The spread of more efficient production methods in the industry and the started volume rolls up at a rapid rate. Shares in the group should be carefully scanned for opportunity.

Although the President's message and other Washington news had most of the attention of the financial district, bright week-end trade reports were scanned by traders with much satisfaction.

The usual post-holiday recession in retail distribution, Dun & B street found, has been held to the narrowest margin in several years as promotional events were more generously patronized than in the beginning of 1933, thus "giving further indication that consumers' confidence as to the future is being

The Communist Program of Class Warfare and World Revolution

"THE dictatorship of the proletariat is nothing else than power based upon force unlimited by nothing—by no kind of law and by absolutely no rule."
—LENIN, Complete Works, Vol. VII, Page 361.

"THE American Communist Party must be improved and Bolshevized. For that we must work in order to forge real revolutionary cadres and a real revolutionary leadership of the proletariat."

capable of leading the many millions of the American working class toward the revolutionary class struggles."

STALIN, in address May 6, 1929.

"THE conquest of power by the proletariat is the VIOLENT ABOLITION of the power of the bourgeoisie, the DESTRUCTION of the MACHINERY of the capitalist state."

"We proclaim openly that our design can only be realized by the VIOLENT OVERTHROW of the ENTIRE TRAITORIAL social order."

(The above policies were formally adopted and promulgated as the Communist program by the Sixth Congress of the Komintern of the Communists' Internationale, which was held in 1929 in Moscow.)

Curley's Demand for Ending of County Government Wise

WHATEVER good reason there may have been for county government vanished in the long, long ago—when county government should have vanished.

Its continued existence in Massachusetts has had no other excuse than political expediency for the last two decades.

During that time its increasing evils paced its mounting evils.

From being merely unnecessary it has steadily degenerated through successive stages of extravagance, waste and graft.

It has spawned little political cliques of despotic power—the county rings—which have set their interests against the good of the state and in many instances have been guilty of viciously dictatorial tactics and dishonesty.

CONSISTENT efforts to abolish county government have been made since 1913 when State Superior of Administration Thomas W. White reported to the Legislature, after an exhaustive survey, that it served no purpose.

Since then it has survived annual attacks, the most recent of which was the 1934 proposal to consolidate the 14 counties into five units.

The attacks have accomplished nothing because they lacked organization, co-ordination and, most important, leadership.

The voice of the tax payer calling for the abolition of the county system has been lost in the political wilderness, piping shrill and unheard—drowned out by the clamor of the county ring soft-job holders and their constituents on Beacon Hill.

NOW comes the long-awaited leadership.

Governor Curley's demand for abolition of county government is one of the soundest points in his program.

He will have a battle on his hands to put it in force.

The county rings will seek to block a constitutional convention and they will have strong support in the Legislature, where half the members will be worrying about the governor's proposal to abolish their jobs, too.

But the great unorganized support of the public will be with the governor, who is a deft organizer and a great battler.

If he can organize this public support and make its force felt on obstructionists who exist by public favor, he should win the battle.

The transfer of county institutions, and the few county offices which need to be continued, into the direct control of state government is a task that has been thoroughly studied.

The only need now is for definite action.

If the Legislature will not provide it on the basis of the governor's suggestion, Mr. Curley will.

Saving of $400,000 It Sounds Good

With the political struggles between the Democrats and the Republicans in Rhode Island we are little concerned.

The Democrats, following their ousting of Republican departments and "Little Rhody" to the State Supreme Court, make a claim, however, that is good, if true.

It is a claim that ought to attract more attention, because it is more important than the overturning of what news dispatches refer to as "the seats of the mighty."

It is the claim that a saving of $400,000 annually in State administrative expenses will result.

Other States—and especially the heavy laden taxpayers—will envy Rhode Island if it turns out that the tax burdens have really been cut $400,000.

They will very properly ask:

"Why can't we too effect some practical savings by weeding out UNNECESSARY government positions and functions?"

Gold in the Hills New England Snows Help

Not for the West alone is the cry, "There's gold in them hills."

It has a rightful place in the New England scheme of things.

Edward S. French, president of the Boston & Maine, discovered the gold for his railway with winter excursion trains.

Cities and towns enjoying a heavy snowfall should advertise the fact.

No longer is it a liability but an asset.

People like to play in winter just as well as in summer.

And the localities that advertise their winter charms will discover the fact.

Uniform Traffic Laws They're Sadly Needed

Over in New York Police Commissioner Valentine has undertaken a timely task in seeking to establish uniform traffic regulations throughout the nation.

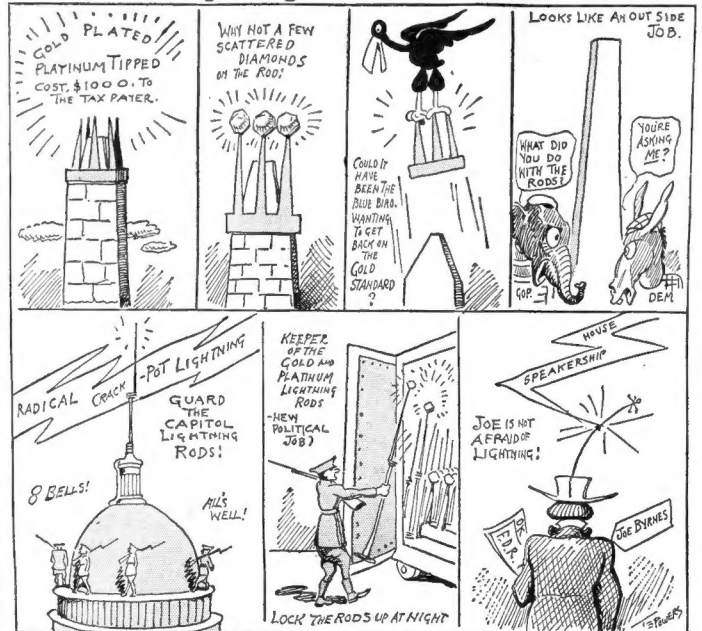

Much unnecessary confusion is caused by conflicting traffic laws in adjoining States, or even adjoining towns. As a matter of fact, an extremely large percentage of accidents may be traced to this one cause.

Commissioner Valentine has appointed a committee to study the traffic laws of all the States, with a view to calling an interstate conference of traffic officers in the near future.

Public officials and automobile associations should support the movement wholeheartedly.

Listen, World!

It's 1935—can you take it?

The calendar says

It's 1935—

But how about it?

CAN YOU TAKE IT?

Some folks

can't.

You've seen

em—

Lived with em.

They believe,

of course,

That they're

living

In today,

But they're not.

Life stopped

for them

Ten or twenty

Years ago

When they were

Barbaric kids in college—

Or when somebody told

'Told 'em they looked

Like a Gibson Girl—

Or the year they beat

Everybody in golf—

Or the time Bill

got into trouble.

Or the bank smashed.

Or they owned,

That swell car.

Or had that operation,

Or maybe

(poor souls)

The day

Little Jimmy died.

Whatever it was,

Glory or sorry,

Life stopped for them

Right there.

And ever since

They've been

Ten today,

Or frustrated,

Or sad,

Or conciliated,

Or peeved.

To go ahead.

It's a cinch

If we don't

There'll be no

The New Year!

And this New Year

Will be a flop

Like all the others—

Twelve months from now

We'll still be

As badly off

As we are today—

Nothing gained.

Nothing achieved—

Whereupon

We'll yell

Our hands off.

And blame everybody,

Including God

And the Democratic Party

For our dear deal!

But we alone

Will be to blame.

We can't have our cake

And eat it too—

Live in Yesterday,

Yet had up today

Record Today.

So—

Take your choice, kid—

What's it going to be?

Going on

Or hanging back?

A Hustler

Or a hanger-on?

This is January

Nineteen thirty-five—

A New Year.

Whoopee—let's go!

WHAT'S CHANCES?

The Marry-Go-Round

Nature made love a lottery for a woman; but man makes it a lottery for himself by always preferring a woman who keeps him guessing to one whose love is a "sure thing."

Mixing a little common sense with love is like mixing a little flour with cornmeal. It gives it body and it gives it staying power.

Nowadays, a Helen Rowland superfluous man can't even let a girl kiss him under the mistletoe unless she can give him some convincing assurance that she won't take him seriously.

Nothing makes a more welcome and charming present than a handsome bottle of perfume. Yet, selecting a perfume for a woman requires almost as much genius as selecting a hat or a husband for her.

Love lives on imagination and caprice—usually on a woman's imagination and a man's caprice.

A holiday is a state of mind

—a delightful escape from reality which gives us all a chance to forget our material problems and recapture the glib, carefree spirit of youth, when the world was sprinkled with stardust.

Sooner or later, "a winning way with women" gets a man in a "spot" where it is no longer any use to him. Life is like that.

When a woman knocks marriage, it is usually because she was short-changed when bus-bands were distributed; but when a man denounces it, it is because he short-changed himself by choosing a wife while his brains were on a vacation.

One reason why a man always resents the neckties that a woman gives him for a present is because he secretly suspects that when she bought the "filly looking" thing she thought they matched his face.

Love always goes harder with a woman. Because when a man feels love "coming on" he rubs for a preventive—a change of scene or a new blonde—but a woman just gives herself up to it as she would a headache, and lets it have its way with her.

Theoretically, a wedding is where the groom begins kissing the bride—and all the other kids lose sleep.

Profiteers grow rich on man's foolish eagerness to get something for nothing—philanderers thrive on woman's foolish inclination to give something for nothing.

It is not always a man is not delighted to receive a present—it is just that he feels he would be a terrible weakness for him to show it.
